

ISTP (International Society for Theoretical Psychology) and STPP
(Society for Theoretical and Philosophical Psychology) present:

Seminar Series Spaces for Theoretical Explorations

You like ideas, concepts, and theories? And do you enjoy discussing, exchanging and understanding them with others? Then this seminar series is just right for you! The seminar series offers dialogical spaces to practice theorizing together. A seminar consists of an online debate that responds to a question relevant to psychology. To facilitate a good dialogue, the seminar organizers form small reading-discussing groups.

Call for a response #3:

What is the role of method in qualitative research?

Seminar date:

15th October 2026 at 5pm CEST

<https://zoom.us/j/97481246481?pwd=A0h7lVkaoZB2cSgAl77bEvaNpKt8Xw.1>

Seminar organizers:

Zed Zhipeng Gao (The American University of Paris)

Laura Carmona Navajo (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid)

seminarseries@istpsychology.org

Languages we can accommodate:

Spanish and English.

To start our dialogue and prepare the debate we offer a reading group on 30th September. Please write seminarseries@istpsychology.org if you are interested in participating in the reading group, so that we can share the readings and Zoom-link with you.